other buttons may also not be useful in other view mode: "New results...", "Print selected HTML...", "Copy selected..." (useless for rasters).

Another approach would be to hide them entirely when in other modes. So there would be a horizontal layout for the buttons that apply only for the Tree view mode, and another layout for buttons/options that apply to all view modes.

I also thought of using a combo box for changin the view mode instead of tabs on top.

Any thoughts?
