Description
I think the bottombar needs some design/gui love... Playing with a custom list of predefined scales I had a better look on the bottom bar (the bar beneath the map) of QGIS desktop. I was working in epsg:28992 and the scales never looked right, because at higher scales the '1:x" part was to big for the given textline. Thinking it had something todo with the crs, I changed to 3857 (google) and 4326 (latlon), but it never got better.... My comments/thoughts <ul style="list-style-type: none">- make the scale item a little bigger (not sure if it is so small because of eg android devices??)- remove the borders/frames from the text items (have to look if they look different in windows....)- maybe make the textlines for coordinate and scale dynamic sized? Not constantly, but as soon as the textsize is bigger then the available space, add 20px to it.- when OTF (on the fly projection) is disabled you see a grey-out crs. when it is on it is black. Maybe skip that (it IS extra info though..)- the frame of the Render checkbox is bigger then the other ones- Coordinate and Extents has a colon next to it, Scale does NOT?- Not sure of this one: the text says: Coordinate (OK), but extents (isn't it extent?)?- message bar icon is not available anymore as soon as you open it and then close it (it does not come back)
