of course this should be a local issue. Maybe something related to your local policies/permissions... Have you tested both the standalone and osgeo4w installers?

I tried it on several pc with different O.S. (xp and vista) and different settings, but with the same result.

i have seen that in non-silent installation it asks something about vcredist in german (!?) and it asks administrator password also if i am the pc administrator

i'll try asap the osgeo installation
