Description
In the web page at this location http://qgis.org/en/site/forusers/alldownloads.html I have followed the instructions to get the development build with these lines in /etc/apt/sources.list <pre>deb http://qgis.org/debian-nightly xenial main deb-src http://qgis.org/debian-nightly xenial main</pre> The most recent build I can get from this is 1:2.99.0+git20170110+313ec55+24xenial or 313ec55 According to a web page https://github.com/qgis/QGIS/tree/313ec55640adf3696d8b7554cc6d9b7fc319c2df this version has not been updated since January. Well that is about what one would expect as a new version has come out, however there apparently aren't any newer packages available in the nightly builds. I can't actually get my computer to install a newer version. Is the issue due to my computer or are newer versions at a different address? These instructions are from the Qgis website.

See <http://qgis.org/en/site/forusers/alldownloads.html#id15> :

"master for Xenial only available for ubuntuGIS (plain Xenial lacks GDAL 2)"

So either switch to ubuntuGIS with <http://qgis.org/ubuntuGIS-nightly> xenial main, or a newer OS version.
