Description

The log file produced by a Processing model is empty, even though the model works fine and produces output.

I can't reproduce. Can you share a screencast?

I have attached a simple model that creates points from a text file. The steps are:

1) Run model

2) Select data source. I use https://earthquake.usgs.gov/earthquakes/feed/v1.0/summary/4.5_day.csv as input.

3) Specify log file

4) Run model

5) Open the new log file, which is empty, even though the model runs fine.

By the way, when I have defined a log file, I dont´t see any indication (such as the file name) that I have specified a log file. Wouldn´t that be informative for the user? This might be a seperate ticket, though.

Can not reproduce. Where do you specify log file? There is only single output in your model — an output layer.

I specify the log file when choosing to run the model, not in the model itself.

I still don't understand. Can you post a screencast showing the issue?

I'm with Nyall here, also don't understand which log file mentioned in this ticket. Attached model works fine and after execution there is an entry in the Processing history. Model itself does not have any log-file outputs.
