Description
It is common in CAD applications, and very convenient, that the second mouse button (that is unused in QGIS today) is used for panning the canvas. This would be a nice added feature.

QGIS pans with the middle mouse button, ie. pressing down the wheel - also common. You can also hold down the spacebar to pan.

OK, sorry, did not know that, but maybe then instead it should be possible to change the settings for this to make it the second button?
