Description
Three cosmetic issues concerning the Labels setup in Layer Properties: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1) Is there a reason why the Default label container isn't empty by default?2) Unlike other size properties, the Font size property shows rather many decimals, counting six. Is this useful in any case, or would it be more logical to follow the pattern of the other label settings, with two decimals?3) The Scale dependent rendering option is also formatted with a lot of decimals, even though the scales in QG seems to be restricted to whole numbers only.
